How would a $50,000 tax credit look on your bottom line next year?

Right now, a special Federal income tax credit is available to employers. It applies to wages paid to certain workers registered for the Work Incentive (WIN) Program, and it can mean a savings of $50,000 in tax credits for any one tax year. Plus half the training costs. The success of that.

WIN participants are motivated workers. Many are volunteers in the program. People who want to work.

There are other attractive tax advantages for giving people on public assistance a chance to work again. To learn how you can substantially reduce your employment costs, ask us about the WIN Program.

IT'S NO WONDER

SANTA IS OVERWEIGHT

For many Americans, the most precarious place to be during the holiday season is behind a chair setting at the dinner table.

Heavy food, drinks, and rich desserts! It might not be so bad if just to Grandmother's house we'd go. But we don't stop there. We have to make the rounds . . . and put on the pounds. And that's where the trouble begins.

From a period that starts with Thanksgiving and goes through New Year's, everywhere we go, we're tempted with cakes, pies, cookies, candy, and hors d'oeuvres. And third and fourth helpings of the turkey and dressing aren't uncommon — they're expected.

Oh, well. So what? It's only once a year and besides, it's the season to be jolly. And we all know that the jolliest people of all are fat people, Right? Wrong. If a fat person happens to be jolly, it isn't because he's fat...it's in spite of it. How can anyone be jolly with a condition that makes a person so uncomfortable, so unattractive, and so unlikely to live a long and satisfying life?

Years ago, being fat was a sign of power and prosperity. If you were fat, that meant you ate well, which meant you had plenty of food, which meant you had plenty of money. The kings throughout history are always portrayed with 50-inch waistlines and drumsticks in their hands.

Even our friend with the red suit and the familiar "ho ho ho" is overweight.

And that's too bad. Think what a better example Santa would be for kids and adults if he weren't fat. Now, it would be almost sacrilegious to recommend that we break tradition and portray Santa Claus as a jolly slender person, who eats sanely and is in excellent physical condition. And we are not recommending that — for it would be shattering to the world to imagine St. Nick as anything else but what he is. Besides, what would we do with all the fat men who don the red suit as their occupation.

What we do recommend is that the image of Santa not be taken literally. That he stop trying to eat every "goodie" that's left under the tree. That he keep his hands out of the candy dish and cookie jar. That he lay off the soda pops and fancy liqueurs. That he pass up some of the liquid celebration. He might hurt a few feelings, but he'd sure feel a lot better. And there's no question about the fact that he'd have a lot easier time getting down those chimneys.

The point is simply this. This time of year we're so busy thinking of others... and eating with others, that we tend to neglect our health. For the sake of your own well being, try to remember that the stockings you stuff this season aren't supposed to be the ones you're wearing. Remember, that in spite of most people's pledge to "take it off after the New Year," in most cases the weight put on during the holidays stays with one person—only to be further abused the following Christmas.

Heritage Defeats Raiderettes 66-33

The 1977-78 State AAA Champions Heritage High School of Lynchburg jumped on the Raiderettes with 33 points in the first half and went on to defeat the Appomattox girls 66 to 33 last Friday in a non-district basketball game.

The Raiderettes, led by Annette Carter's 14 points and Susan Godsey's 9 points, did not come to life until the second half scoring 24 of their 33 points after intermission.

Leading the Heritage attack was Delois Moss who poured in a game high 34 points, 20 in the final period, followed by Charlice Moore with 14 points.

Heritage led in the rebound department with 54 to 22 for the Raiderettes. Heritage shot 30% from the floor (29 for 74) compared to 17% for Appomattox (12 for 54) but the Raiderettes were better at the free line with 64% (9 of 14) to 30% for Heritage (8 of 27).

All of the Raiderettes saw action in the contest and played well against a good AAA team.

The Appomattox girls, coached by Mary Tolley, will travel to E. C. Glass, another AAA School Wednesday, December 6, to attend and support the Raiderettes.

Hand Tools are Inexpensive Gifts For Active Family

This holiday season, every member of today's active family — bikers, campers, skiers, or even snowmobilers — will enjoy receiving practical hand tool sets.

Special, holiday packages, such as the handy, two-tool, Vise-Grip locking pliers gift sets, are especially convenient, as the larger 10-inch unit is perfect for use on big jobs, such as motor repairs, while the 5-inch "jr." model is great for those camper adjustments.

While every tool kit should include the larger locking pliers, the small-size model is just right for motor home kitchens, auto glove compartments or backpackers' "emergency kits." These versatile tools can be used by Mom as a make-shift pan or pot handle at the campsite; by Dad as a speed-wrench to fix the outboard motor; or by the children to ready the bicycles for a ride through the woods or to tighten the skis!

Available at hardware, discount, department and auto supply stores, Vise-Grip hand tool sets will surprise and please every member of the outdoor or sporting family on your gift list. Add the budget's the same as for those tired and traditional gifts of ties, perfume or clothes! †

Don't Forget New Postal Rules for Holiday Packages

It's never too early to start thinking about Christmas — especially when gifts have to be packed and mailed far away. And this year, new postal regulations that went into effect last spring make it even more important than ever for you to make sure that your packages are wrapped just so. If not, they could be turned down at the local post office window as unacceptable.

The new regulations are simple measures to protect your packages from travel mishaps, delayed delivery, damage or loss and the never-ending "limbo". When new rules go into effect, confusion often follows, but the 3M Company, a leader in the manufacture of tapes for more than 50 years, has devised a nearly foolproof system that's easy to follow.

Keep these guidelines in mind when preparing packages for mailing:

• Don't use masking tape for package closure or reinforcement. It's no longer acceptable, due to poor past performance.

• Avoid stapling, as it may damage package wraps or cause injury to personnel doing the handling.

• Brown wrapping paper and conventional twine or cord are not necessary. Tapes applied directly to the package are preferred.

• Containers: choose a solid and corrugated fiberboard carton.

• Inside information: items inside the box should be protected from each other with paper, plastic shredding or excelsior to cushion heavy objects from fragile ones. To prevent lateral shifting, fill the box to capacity.

• Preliminary, securing: tape down ends of closures and joints with pressure-sensitive tape — "Scotch" Package Sealing Tape, for instance. It's important that tape extend three inches over the adjoining sides to support your final banding.

• Banding: use a very strong, self-adhesive filament tape for banding. "Scotch" Strapping Tape is especially good for this purpose. It has a powerful tensile strength of from 140 to 210 pounds and an extra-strong grip that won't weaken even under severe climate conditions.

• Method: when banding for closure and reinforcement, the filament tape should encircle the package at least twice girthwise and lengthwise. The longer and wider the container, the more times it should be encircled.

• Markings: use a smudge-proof ink for the address, zip code and return address. Print clearly and large enough for markings to be read at 30 inches.

• Mail early: overseas surface mail should be sent six to seven weeks in advance, while air mail needs at least a month to make it in time for Christmas. So do cross-country packages. And, allow at least two weeks for local package mail.

Holidays greetings to One and all!

Housekeeping Tip for the Holidays

Your blender may be working harder during the holidays. To keep it ready for entertaining, let it clean itself. Leave the container in its base, half full with warm water, add ¼ cup of lemon ammonia and run blender for a minute or two.

Empty, fill with clear water and run blender again. Empty again, and dry.

Raiderettes Small But Confident

Losing five starters to graduation and returning only three girls who lettered last season, Coach Mary Tolley says her team has a great deal of confidence and drive which should help them be competitive.

The A.C.H.S. girls basketball team finished 5th in Seminole District competition in 1977-78 with a record of 7 wins and 9 losses (7 - 10 overall) however this year they will be without the services of Marie Fraley, 2nd team all-district, and Connie Murray, Hon. Mention All-District. Also, Marlene Moore, who averaged 10 points and 6 rebounds and Roxie Martin, who averaged 7 points a game. Add Roni Franklin to the list and Coach Tolley lost a lot of talent.

On the plus side, Coach Tolley is looking for leadership from co-captain Susan Godsey, a senior guard, Annette Carter, a junior forward, and Susan Handy a sophomore, all of whom lettered last season. Co-captain Vanessa Smith, a 5'7" senior forward/center, Debbie Smith, a 5'7" junior and Johnna Belter, a 5'4" junior guard, up from the J. V. team round out the top six players. They will be backed up by juniors Sherri Repass, Angie Richardson and Kim Hipps, sophomores Robin Martin and Karen Johnson and freshmen Lolita Preston and Terri Robinson.

"The Raiderettes are small again this year," says Miss Tolley, "so we will depend on speed, quickness, good defense and good shot percentage." Se added, "our success will depend, a great deal, on our ability to defend the big girls and rebounding."

Coach Tolley feels Rustburg and Amherst will be the teams to beat in the Seminole District due to their size and experience. Liberty, even though it lost its big players, will probably be tough to beat.

William Campbell and Jefferson Forest could be dark horses in the district race while the remainder of the district teams are facing a rebuilding year.
